THE HEALTH & DISABILITY COMMISSIONER

The Health and Disability Commissioner is an independent agency set up to:

- promote and protect the rights of consumers who use health and disability services;
- help resolve problems between consumers and providers of health and disability services; and
- improve the quality of health care and disability services.

The Code of Health and Disability Services Consumers' Rights applies to all health and disability services in New Zealand.

The Code gives rights to all consumers, and places obligations on people and organisations providing services. It covers a wide range of providers (whether public or private) including:

- hospitals
- rest homes
- doctors
- home care providers
- counsellors
- homeopaths
- nurses
- therapeutic masseurs
- optometrists
- midwives

In making a complaint, it is important that consumers act in good faith, are fair and truthful, and share all information they know to be relevant.

The Commissioner's jurisdiction is restricted to the quality of care; it does not cover issues of funding or entitlement to a service.

Complaints about privacy of information or ACC should be made to the Privacy Commissioner (0800 803 909) or ACC (0800 650 222).

USING YOUR RIGHTS

If you believe your rights have been breached, it is best to talk or write directly to the person or organisation giving you the service. Very often they will welcome your complaint as it helps them improve their standard of service or uncover a problem. If you feel uncomfortable or unable to do this you can take a friend or relative with you as support. You can also have the support of an independent Health and Disability Advocate who is trained to help people in your situation. This service is free.
